

Californians Are Speaking Out on the INSANITY of Flushing BILLIONS of Gallons of Water Out to Sea.

WHILE CALIFORNIANS HAVE BEEN DOING EVERYTHING POSSIBLE TO CONSERVE water, government agencies have been flushing billions of gallons of water directly into the ocean. This year alone more than 1 million acre-feet of water has been flushed out to sea, with another 550,000 acre feet being proposed for similar actions. That's enough water to supply the domestic needs of 9.4 million people or grow over 26 billion salads.

CALIFORNIANS ACROSS THE STATE ARE SPEAKING OUT AND CALLING FOR AN END TO THIS INSANITY. Our current policies are helping no one and hurting millions. Working together, using sound science and common sense to make smart choices about allocation will benefit urban, rural and environmental water users.

Everyone needs to conserve water, including government agencies.

Rosemary, Mill Valley

Time to use science instead of politics. Growing food is not a waste of water.

Fred, Kingsburg

Farmers need water to feed the nation and the world. This is a ridiculous political way to end farming as we know it. I don't want to rely on foreign imported food.

Elaine, Auburn

We need change and practical science applied to issues.

George, Fresno

It's outrageous for bureaucrats to throw water away with no results while the state's farmers go dry.

Suzanne, Palo Alto

We must stop sending water to the ocean and save and store for the Citizens of California, both urban and rural.

Judith, Bakersfield

Our water management is causing the waste of billions of gallons of water. We can make it work for all if we use common sense.

Janie, Fresno

We need to stop the insanity that is not helping fish, farmers, waterfowl, communities - everyone is suffering. We need some real leadership and solutions.

Cannon, Los Banos

I don't want to depend on unregulated foreign food. CA farmers need water to continue to feed the nation.

Corinne, Clovis

I'm tired of man-made drought.

Rick, Salinas

This is absurd. This needs to end.

Michael, LA

It's the right thing to do for the People of California! We have been left out of this equation for too long.

Wendy, Hermosa Beach

I have grave concerns about the water supply and current water crisis, and the dire conditions in the Central Valley farmland.

Jan, La Mesa

It's time to fix California's water problems take care of the environment, sustain food sources and protect the urban environment.

Erin, Morgan Hill

It's time to bring some balance to water management. Let's do the right things that will actually save the fish and the farms.

Frances, Tracy

This situation is not tolerable
